THE ELECTION

A NEW ATTITUDE

THE NATIONAL FRONT is not contesting a single seat in this General Election. Instead, it will be running an active abstentionist campaign. This will seek to encourage the millions of people who think that the present system is a corrupt fraud to have the courage of their convictions and refuse to vote. We will also be working to get across positive proposals for a truly democratic National Revolutionary structure of government.

The reasons for the National Front's new attitude fall into two broad categories. The first is that we are simply not strong enough to compete on equal terms with the main parties in their regular game of electoral roulette. As a number of articles in this issue make clear, the Establishment parties have created a cosy electoral club, whose rules have been carefully manipulated to exclude outsiders from competing effectively.

This is a far more effective form of repression than the naked denial of our right to stand at all. For not only does it allow the Establishment to portray a democratic face, but it has the added advantage of tempting naive radical groups into wasting their time and vast sums of money in an uneven contest which they cannot win.

The raising of the election deposit from £150 was a case in point. It was openly admitted that this was done to hinder the National Front. But the final figure of £500 was clearly not intended to stop the NF contesting elections at all, but to encourage us to bleed ourselves to death in an effort to continue with the failed tactics of the past.

PLAYING THE GAME

But the National Front is not interested in such futile games. When we have the human, financial and propaganda resources to beat the Old Gang at their own game, then we will play it again. But for the time being, we will pick our own ground - ground where we can win.

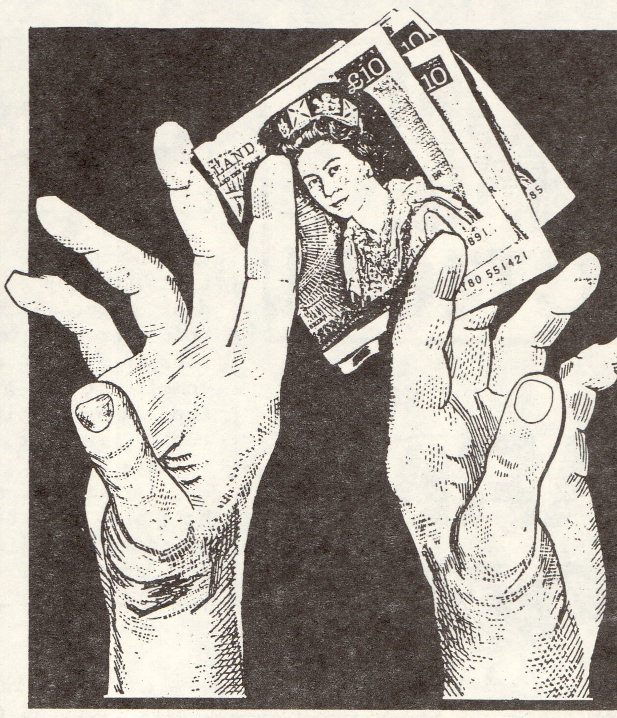
The second set of reasons for boycotting parliamentary elections is that the system is an undemocratic farce. Although MP's are supposed to sit as our "representatives", the truth is that they represent no-one except themselves and the sectional interests which finance their squalid parties. On everything from capital punishment for child murderers, to the destruction of our racial and cultural identity by mass coloured immigration, the politicians have deliberately ignored the clear wishes of the British peoples.

"Representation" is a fraud, and by taking part in such a fraud we give it an air of legitimacy. The only principled thing to do is to refuse to be used in this way. The alternative is not terrorism or violence, but work within our communities to build constructive alternatives to State power - alternatives which will help reduce our people's dependence on "Nanny" at Westminster. True democracy can only come through participation.

IMPORTANT NOTICE; Whenever possible hand correspondence for the NF, NF News or Bookshops to your local NF contact, so that it can be delivered through the movement's internal postal system. This is very important when dealing with subscriptions, orders and membership payments.

If you do have to use the Post Office network, ALWAYS use RECORDED DELIVERY and keep your receipt safely.

While the constant interference with our post is irritating, this attempt to disrupt the NF, is a tribute to its growing effectiveness. So rather than moaning about it, all NF members and supporters must accept the hard work and discipline needed to make our internal communications network an efficient alternative.



The corruption of the SYSTEM

Most thinking people in this country today, are becoming aware of how corrupt and degenerate our System and its operatives are. In this special feature, we look at three different aspects of that corruption to illustrate how deeply entrenched this disease is throughout the System.

When self-seeking is the rule...

politicians

FOLLOWING the well-deserved disgrace of Harvey Proctor, the right-wing M.P. involved in spanking sessions with, amongst others, a young Arab boy, two more Conservative M.P.'s have been caught with their trousers down.

But this time the corruption involved is financial. Keith Best, Tory M.P. for Ynys Mon, has admitted making illegal multiple applications for British Telecom shares. His local association cleared him "for the time being" after hearing his pathetic explanation of how he came to apply for no fewer than six lots of B.T. shares in 1984.

In their efforts to keep the damage to a minimum, his association accepted his claim that he did not know that he was doing anything wrong. That this was an obvious lie is shown by the fact that Best used permutations of his name and four different addresses to disguise his identity when applying for the "instant profit" share offer.

CORRUPT M.P.

The corrupt M.P. assured a meeting of his local officials that he had not made any other such applications, only to admit the next day to buying extra shares in Jaguar by applying for four lots in the same way.

And now, Eric Cockeram, Tory M.P. for Ludlow, has also been caught making multiple share applications. His constituency officials, like Proctor's and Best's, are expected to try to turn a blind eye to his corruption.

For a party which claims to stand for honest hard work and family morality, the Conservatives certainly put up with some shady characters. But perhaps the only difference between them and their colleagues is that most of them haven't been caught!

A GREATER MANCHESTER police "cheque fraud squad officer" who was suspended for six months amid allegations of corruption is now back at his desk, although one of his colleagues is thought to have had to leave the force.

Mohamed Younis Raja, from Bury, near Manchester, claims that Detective Inspector George Gardner, of the Longsight-based cheque fraud squad, confiscated £60,000 worth of electrical goods from him. He claims that although they were his, the police then tried to sell them back to him. He also says that he paid the policemen involved £1,500 in bribes.

Raja is a shady character with a conviction for fraudulent trading, and the officers claim that they were simply investigating fraud.

NOT CONVINCED

But Greater Manchester's 'Y' (Discipline) Department do not seem to have been convinced. They sent the case on to the Police Complaints Authority, who in turn passed the papers to the Director of Public Prosecutions. The DPP recommended that no action be taken.

This is just one more case where the DPP's decision looks suspiciously like one section of the Establishment protecting another. Certainly Raja's solicitor is not prepared to accept the decision. He has announced that his client is now going to bring his own civil action against Chief Constable Anderton and members of his force.

Cover-ups kill our children

THE TORY GOVERNMENT is deliberately suppressing alarming facts about the dangers of chemical and radio-active pollution. The facts which emerged from a detailed study by the Ministry of Agriculture are so shocking that they are being hushed up.

The decision not to publish the results of research at the Ministry's own experimental farm at Boxworth, Cambridgeshire, is believed to have been taken personally by the agriculture minister, Michael Joplin. He wants to prevent a public debate about the enormous subsidies paid to farmers who are destroying our countryside, and to conceal the full extent of the damaging effect of chemical pollution on the environment.

In order to do this, the Ministry of Agriculture has:

* SUPPRESSED much evidence about dangerous exposure to radioactivity through agriculture and the food chain. Publicity about this threat to children and future generations is described as "not desirable".

* SILENCED discussion about the harmful effects of acid rain and the cancer-causing chemical dioxin, one of the most toxic pollutants caused by many industrial processes.

* DODGED worries about the link between nuclear power and the growth of State power. There is now a wide range of statutory controls available to ministers in the event of a "civil emergency" such as the escape of hazardous substances and the consequent contamination of food supplies or even whole areas of the country. Publicity about these is also described as "not desirable".

* DUCKED rising worries about the concentration of industrial chemicals in fish. The results of tests carried out in co-operation with other European countries will not be made public.

* STOPPED publication of the results of experiments which suggest that cutting down on the amounts of chemicals put on fields has very little effect on the yield or quality of crops.

If such "low input" farming was widely adopted, it would slash the cost of food production and the rising levels of pesticide and fertilizer pollution in our drinking water. But it would also hit the profits of the big chemical companies - which could in turn cut their donations to the Tory party.

With such a blatant attempt to keep us in the dark on these vital issues, it is no suprise that ordinary people are more and more cynical about our "open and democratic system of government" - and more and more worried about the deadly environmental pollution which is being hushed up by a profit mad System.

Teach Yourself Nationalism

No.8

A revolution for the People

THE previous two installments of this series drew attention to the reasons why the National Front is determined to make this a mono-racial country once more; that is, to ensure that our British and European heritage will survive and flourish in the future. We demonstrated that this position was founded upon racial, historical and moral considerations, and that we believed that the defence of our national identity would, in the longer term, contribute effectively to a lasting and genuine peace in the world.

However, it is vital to understand at this stage that the achievement of a mono-racial Britain is not the end of the revolutionary nationalist process, for whilst we are intent on securing the rights of our Nation, we are also determined to secure the rights of the many individuals that make up this country. This may seem a commonsense observation, but there are some, who wrongly call themselves "nationalists", who believe that the beginning and end of nationalism is the repatriation of all coloured immigrants to their land of ethnic origin. Nothing could be further from the truth, for the immigrants are not the cause of this country's problems, but merely a manipulated symptom of the disease that has poisoned government in these islands for centuries. Even if every coloured was repatriated tomorrow, we would still be confronted by the enormous problems of capitalism and unemployment, drug addiction, pollution, sexual deviancy, abortion on demand, vivisection and a whole host of other frightening evils. All such evils require a comprehensive solution - the revolutionary nationalist solution. Anyone who tells you otherwise should be treated for what they are: ignorant, Tory and reactionary!

TOWARDS NATIONAL LIBERATION

The revolutionary nationalist movement in the West strives to liberate our countries from the shackles of a Capitalist economy and a Zionist dominated media, and it does so because love and honour is granted to our nations. But the nation is not merely a collectivity, it is also a social organism made up of millions of people, all of whom have rights, responsibilities, desires and ideals. To liberate the Nation only to deny these millions their just reward is to contradict our nationalism. To liberate the Nation and replace the old rulers with the dictatorship of an individual or of a party is to contradict our nationalism. Nationalism is that creed which allows all of the people to control their own lives themselves, to make those decisions that determine their future. Nationalism is not the exercise of political power by the Few, but rather it is the masses exercising power in their own name and manner.

Thus, a genuine national revolutionary government will ensure, from the start, that it decentralizes Power, Wealth and Arms into the hands of the People where it rightfully belongs. It will not be an overnight affair, but an organic one moulded by an education programme that seeks to make the people aware of their new and profound social responsibilities. But one thing can be certain in this matter, the decentralization will give the People that for which they have yearned for far too long - control over their own lives, free from the intrusions of the bureaucrat, the politician and the policeman.

DECENTRALIZATION MEANS FREEDOM

The first, and perhaps most important, area that an NF government will decentralize is that of the economy. At present we have a capitalist economy that is built upon the idea that "Big is best". This principle is one that is intolerant of ideals or small institutions that obstruct its developing monopoly, so much so that the economy is organized in such a way that "the weak, the unprofitable, go to the wall". It is the capitalist "law" that the NF utterly rejects as violently anti-nationalist in its essence.

There are millions of old folk and millions of youngsters in this country. There are millions also who are ill, needy or poor. They are all our People, for we are of them and they are of us. To the Capitalist they are candidates to be executed in his war of "free enterprise", but to us they are our mothers and fathers, our children and our grandparents, our friends and our comrades. They have a right to life, to a decent life in a free and prosperous nation because they are of our blood and our spirit. To turn your back on them is to turn your back on the Nation, on your professed nationalism, and on real Life. If there is no sense of community between our families, if there is no sense of Purpose and no sense of Destiny, the National Revolution will prove useless in halting our national and spiritual decline.

It is because the NF is commited to the communitarian ethic - a nation at work and a nation at arms - that it will give back this country to her long suffering people. In the next installment we shall discuss the building of a People's economy where Capital and Labour disappear to be replaced by the Worker-employer. A man who can provide for his own essentials - shelter, food and clothing - is our ideal, the object of our national revolutionary struggle. Why? Because he is a man who has political and economic freedom - and from that freedom comes the nourishment and development of the soul that leads all to Happiness, Justice and Truth.
